Subject: 05-03-2020 FW: Hasi Squash Report
Date: Fri, 6 Mar 2020 09:21:21 +0000

Another monumental night for the Hasi Massive last night with typical Hasi Performances and as the season draws in towards its conclusion, we never fail to appreciate the effort that goes into the previous night and last night was clearly exactly the same. There are some great highlights listed below so look for the gems – there are many Hasi targets and are all in sight of achieving what we set out to achieve at the beginning of the season.

Hasi 1 Stay in Div 3 – Hasi 2 push to top of Div 4 Hasi 3 _ Promoted _ Hasi 4 Developing players (Lets remember Hasi 4 was the starting point for a few of our stars 😊) Special mention also to needs to be made to Les who got the call at 1 pm yesterday Hasi 4 down a player and indeed Captain and valiantly stepped in – Deserved your pie and pint there sir

Hasi 1 vs David Lloyd North

Lost 4-1

19-4

So, trying to make it 4 on the bounce the snowflakes trying to push ourselves out of the relegation area.

First up

Me at 1 vs jamie karpyn lost 3-0

Not much to report - match w - accumulating them quicker than a crack addict needing his next fix 😊

John at 5 vs damian

Pinching him from the marines, John arrived super early- early enough to miss my game 😊 😊

Tight first game but john took the first. The next he was away with the fairies and let damian back in. Quick pep talk and i thought the marine grit would pull him through- 9-5 but conspired to lose it 12-10. Close in the fourth but on the wrong side of a 12-10- another day and could have gone the other way.

Next up Tim vs Keith – Lost 3-0

Slow start and couldn't quite get into it. Lost the first 11-6.

The next was a lot more competitive- Tim doing everything apart from the winner. Lost 12-10. Lost the 3rd also - couldn't quite get into the feel.

On the other court the match of the night

Fin at 4 vs Dave whittles won 3-2

Tom was kind enough to go on the other court which i had to mark- thanks tom👍😊

Raced to great start 5-1 up. Slowed down but held his nerve to take it 12-10. Super close in the second and took that 14-12- Dave looking perilously at a 3-0 drubbing. Fin taking his foot of the gas in the third letting Dave back in- the experience points counting. Dave took the fourth to turn it into a desmond. 2-2- squeaky bum time. Fin holding his nerve to take it 11-9- take a bow son👏

Last up tom mc vs nick

Lost 3-0

Empty gallery for this one - sorry tom- fin stole your thunder. Plenty of effort but on wrong side of a 3-0.

So 19-4 but some valuable points and the youth policy is working well. Every point needed from now on.

Hasi 2 vs Cheetham Hill 2 at home Won 20-0

Simon B v Zwi

11-6,12-10,11-4

Straight off the back of a defeat of cosmic proportions to tricky Ricky mid-week Mr B was lucky to be on the sheet. But H2 is his place - another fantastic non-Tuesday like display of workmanlike, no nonsense squash. Little wobble in game 2 but never in doubt. Well played Simon - one up !

Andy v Gary

11-6,11-9,11-2

Our most cosmopolitan, well dressed player of the night - kit - absolutely no idea who dressed him - but the splendour of his after-match attire completes with neckerchief- va va vroom monsieur Wray !!

Another great display by Andy pulling a very fit Gary around the court with ease and even having a little time to tease his opponent in the second to getting 9 points before putting the boot in. Poor Gary - thought he had a chance - afraid not 11 blooming 2 - now that's a finish !!

Ben v Mike Kav

11-6, 11-4,11-6

Quite simply the best I've seen our Ben play for ages. Kav has beaten many before us and is no slouch but Ben tonight was epic. Never seen as many perfect lengths - it was as though there was a karma over our man. No shouting, no hassle, no fuss just utter destruction of someone who is normally a handful. My match of the night tonight !

Chris v James

11-5,11-2,15-13

So on paper 12 points between us - If you believe the stats - all set for a good'un then !! Straight out of the traps tonight 11-5,11-2 signs of toys coming out of the pram by James as I, chest out, dished it out - get in !! Always a bad thing though me going 2-0 up a bit too easy - and so it was in the third I found myself 6-10 down. But tonight, is a story of majestic marines marching against a higher force - so from 6-10 down to 15-13 winner. The boys are well and truly on the home stretch.

Simon L v haroon

11-4,11-8,11-5

So what do get when you give Si L a beating on Tuesday and spend the rest of the week messaging him he's never won in H2 and perhaps he should give his place up for someone more worthy.....what you get is a left handed legend eager to ditch his duck. Haroon is no easy scalp and the way Simon dismantled him tonight shows how much he wanted it. Some tremendous cut out volleys just not letting haroon get a look in. 3-0 quick as that and marines had it all finished before 9.00pm !!

So officially - Si B and me are joint match "w" tonight based on points against even though we both won 3-0. However, if you split a "w" in half you have two "V"s and that ladies & gents is what the whole team was tonight. A team of valiant, victorious vanquishment ! Or to me and you just plain and simple - winners 20-0 oorah !!!!

Thanks to the HSC vets team for turning out to support us tonight - seen less grey in 50 shades !!!

Team 3 report away v TFW

Cheldon v AJ - 1-3

Welcome back AJ from kicking it in the Caribbean and straight back into the fray.

Playing a South African that that was certainly on the top-heavy side.

AJ started off well and took the first. Had a bit of a wobble in the second but found his rhythm and ran out a worthy winner.

Hass v Danny - 2-3

Danny back fresh from his 50 mile slog round Chester decided to put on a bit of a show(and give me a heart attack ☹) took the first two and cruising then lost the next two both 16-14 when being 12-8 up in both ☹ .

Me marking was starting to get that sinking feeling, but Danny has other ideas and edges out a close fifth.

Tim v Aaron 3-2

Game of the night without a doubt.

No need for any witty description the squash did the talking with plenty of energy sapping rallies and absolutely nothing between them.

Tim just edged it in the fifth. Great game!👍

Mat v Steve M 1-3

Relatively straight forward night for Steve apart for a blip in the second. Never in doubt.

Kevin v me (Si F) 3-2

I'm now at home nutting the wall trying to work out how I managed to throw away a 2-0 lead against a guy whom I thrashed at hassy 🙄🙄.

No excuses I went from good to crap in a matter of 20 minutes.

Still got a 19-point haul but should have been a full house. Big week next week against cheating hill and need a performance as we all agree we want winners' medals 🏆.

Well done to the lads who won tonight to keep us in the running.

You wait for one report then 2 come along at once!

Hassy Globe Trotters v Markland Hill (5-0 or 20-3 if you prefer)

So the pack has been shuffled, shuffled some more, dropped, picked back up, put the round way round and reshuffled

I'm beginning to think it was last week's report and the idea that of your name going up in lights has put a few folk off the gig

Development is still the name of the game though

Les 'What the Butler saw' (3-1)

Les came out the traps like he'd been polishing the family silver all day, bright shiny and new, and set about his woman with gusto, turns out he needed a lot of gusto

Gerard B was all action in the first game, More Mr Carson and was Downton in second, looking to attach a snorkel down his shorts, as he was now breathing through the comfy seat area, the extra breath paid off and he went on to win at a canter. Importantly the 5th Beatle was upstairs and downstairs, horse whispering all night, whatever he said it worked

Steely Steve, had come out to 'make it so' tonight, showing lots of 'enterprise' and skill.
His opponent tried to Klingon. Resistance is futile, assimilated, nah bother.
Steve reported no trouble with his tribbles, as he had not been cycling this week. Nicely played

Compo Ray (3-2)

Ey up grandad, roll us yer cap ?
Many do, and many regret it, underestimate our lad and pay the price. The other Peter Pan of squash (5th Beatle Scurlock being the other) started slowly and was 2 down, send in the 5th Beatle for a chat
Ray then started as Gary faded, a couple of corkscrews and Gary was totally bamboozled, Gary was looking to borrow Les's snorkel by this time, game over

Brucie Bonus (3-0)

Got a trot out this week, we played on both courts at 6.30, 5th Beatle marking, the annoying thing is not many saw me play as well as I have for ages, my guy was done hosed and left by 7.15

Farr Out Man (3-0)

Chris has played some easier games this season and Dezza said he wanted to run his eye over him higher up. Farr star did not disappoint at all, 5th Beatle had gone so he was taking council from Compo
Ken Harrison is no mug and has scalped a few Globetrotters in his time, not this lad he was mustard tonight and didn't really give Ken a sniff, impressive stuff, another diamond unearthed
